

WASHINGTON MEDIA INSTITUTE

It's in our name: the Washington Media Institute is an immersive, media-focused internship program unlike anything you've experienced. WMI offers students a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to work with leading media professionals and get real world experience that other internship programs don't offer.

Don't believe us? Here's what WMI alumni had to say...

WMI took everything I had learned so far in college about the media landscape and set it on fire - in the best way possible. WMI prepared me to keep moving forward in my educational and professional career. I left WMI knowing that I am capable of far more than I could have ever imagined. I know that I have the skills and the connections to help me land the job I want because of WMI.

KATEY HASS - UNIVERISTY OF COLORADO

I wish everyone would get the chance to do a program like WMI. The skills you learn, and the real-world experience you gain - it's like nothing else out there.

JOE BARTEL - RECENT GRADUATE, SAINT NORBERT COLLEGE

There's no way to adequately express in words the monumental role this program played in my life - especially when it comes to introducing me to the professional world of journalism. But the simplest way I can put it would be this: without participating in such an amazing program that offered me so many opportunities and opened countless doors for me early on in my career, there is no question that I would not be where I am now.
